Needy Families Fed By Welfare Council

There were thirty needy families in Glendale who had a happy Thanksgiving and bountiful dinner through the thoughtfulness of the local welfare council, assisted by pupils of the high and intermediate schools, and members of the P.-T. A., the Casa Verdugo Methodist and St. Mark's Episcopal churches.

Great credit is due the school pupils according to Mrs. E. L. Young, chairman of philanthropy of the Federation of P.-T. A. Mrs. Young stated this morning that the high school pupils had made contributions amounting to $94; pupils from the Glendale Avenue Intermediate, $9, and Wilson Avenue Intermediate, $20.

In behalf of the Federation and the welfare council, Mrs. Young has expressed appreciation and thanks to the school pupils and members of the churches assisting.

Leaves Lizzie Alone; Judge to Hear Story

Looking for a home for Lizzie caused W. E. Palmer to make two trips to the Los Angeles police station. Palmer states that the way it happened was as follows:

He drove to Los Angeles Wednesday morning, where he purchased a large team of black horses. When he came out, he found a tag on his Lizzie, having left it two and six-ninths minutes in a two minute zone.

He went to the police station and tried to explain but they told him to "tell it to the judge."

So today Palmer is making his second trip to Los Angeles on this same detail of business.

Mrs. H. R. Boyer to Tell of Trip Abroad

Mrs. H. R. Boyer of 232 North Orange street, who returned recently from a trip abroad, will speak Monday night at the meeting of the Legion auxiliary in the Legion hall on East Broadway. She will tell of her foreign trip, especially of her visits to the battlefields of the late war.

A business session with initiation of new members will take place at 7:30 o'clock preceding Mrs. Boyer's address. There will be musical selections by Mrs. G. Kaemmerling and an address on educational week.

REALTY BOARD COMMITTEE REPORTS ON TAX QUESTION

Comprehensive and Authoritative Facts Show Real Situation In City

Representing the Glendale Realty Board, a committee, appointed at a regular meeting of the board on November 22, made a thorough investigation on the taxes in Glendale. Information from every available source was considered, it is announced. The committee reported at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board on Wednesday, November 29, and the report was unanimously indorsed by the board as being most comprehensive and based upon data gleaned from the most reliable sources. The report in full follows:

Glendale, November 29, 1922.

Mr. President and Members Glendale Realty Board—We, your recently appointed committee for the purpose of investigating the tax situation in our city, beg to submit the following report:

Immediately following the appointment of this committee, November 22, we made a visit to the office of the County Tax Assessor Ed W. Hopkins, who extended us a very cordial welcome and gave us access to records dealing with the subject in hand. We compared our local tax assessments with the assessments of Los Angeles, Pasadena, Long Beach, Alhambra, Hollywood section (Western Avenue), Santa Monica and other Cities making a thorough investigation of the assessed valuations in the various locations. We found that valuations in localities other than Glendale have been increased from year to year, and, in some cases such as Western Avenue and parts of the city of Los Angeles, as much as 200 to 300 per cent over previous years, two or three years in succession. Valuations in Glendale have not been generally increased for three years back, although said values have been increased this year. As stated by Mr. Hopkins, if his office had not increased values in Glendale he would have considered his assessment forces inefficient, for, as we all well know, values have very materially increased in Glendale.

The total Assessed Valuations of Glendale and its environs for the fiscal year 1922-1923 are—$21,981,560.00.

Average Glendale Municipal tax rate at 1.54 gives to this community an amount of $352,511.55.

This, generally speaking, covers our conference with the county assessor. We are convinced as a result of the inspection of the Assessor's books and other available information that the city of Glendale has not been discriminated against in the matter of assessed valuations this year.

During the committee meeting the evening of the 23rd, we came to the conclusion that a conference with the City Council, who establish the rate and appropriate the money received from taxes, would give much necessary information. Hence, on Thursday evening the Council gave us an hour in the committee of the whole before the regular meeting and the following information is the result of that conference:

Total Municipal Tax Revenue	$352,511.55
1. Appropriations: Operation of General administration, Public Welfare, Police and Fire Departments and Division Supt. of Buildings	156,691.35
2. Additions—Buildings and equipment street Department	9,715.00
3. Street Maintenance and Flood Control	36,634.00
4. Park and Recreation Budget	65,944.68
5. Libraries Budget	43,963.12
6. Interest and Redemption of Fire, Street and District Bonds	22,788.15
	$352,511.55

Details of above appropriations are as follows:

1. Administration: City Manager, salaries and expenses	7,790.00
Accounting Dept., salaries and expenses	7,070.50
City Clerk, salaries and expenses	4,367.60
City Treasurer, salaries and expenses	2,815.00
Trustees and City Attorney, salaries and expenses	6,286.00
Public Judge, salary and expenses	4,431.00
Garages, public, expenses	500.00
Tax Collection	775.00
City Hall, expenses	2,190.00
Auto Bus Transportation, expenses	818.00
Advertising and Promotion, expenses	4,000.00
Election expenses	1,600.00
WELFARE:
Quarantine and fumigation	3,405.00
General Inspection	5,290.00
Public Health Nurse	1,177.00
Garbage collection	13,000.00
Rubbish collection	11,000.00
Street cleaning Dept.	16,460.00
Charity and Welfare	960.00
Drinking fountains	300.00
Division street lighting	14,000.00
POLICE DEPARTMENT
Chief, Lieut., and Matron	8,162.00
Motorcycle service	10,230.69
Detective service and specials	5,046.00
Police Patrol	20,429.70
FIRE DEPARTMENT
Total operating expenses	41,543.75
PUBLIC WORKS
Engineering department	21,950.00
Street superintendent	11,241.00
Dept., removal sand and debris.	7,025.00
Repairs to improved streets	5,778.00
Repairs to unimproved streets	10,780.00
Flood control (local)	8,240.00
Superintendent of buildings	5,238.00
Public inspection	6,203.00
Electrical inspection	3,875.00

There is other revenue coming to the city, which more than takes care of above excess, and is more definitely described as follows: Interest and penalties on taxes, $2,000; Business licenses, $8,000; Dog licenses $1,600; Building permits, $17,500; Sale of street permits, $1,000; Police court fines, $25,000; Franchise revenues, $6,750; Interest bank deposits, $4,500; Municipal searches, $1,500; From electric meter charges, $30,000; Rebate county road taxes, $1,000; Merchants' rubbish tags, $3,000.

The only other item we wish to enumerate is item No. 4, Park and Recreation Budget which is as follows:

Patterson Avenue Park, $4,745; Verdugo Park, $34,810; Piedmont Park and others, $1,000; Swimming Pool, $3460; Playgrounds, $400; and a balance of $20,361.27 which is as yet unappropriated. This amount will be used for repairs and additions and improvements in the parks and playgrounds.

Mention should be made for the information of those interested in the tax question, that the general budget for the year 1922-23 was discussed by the Council at the meeting of June 15, was recorded in the minutes printed in both local papers June 16 and notice of hearing for adoption of same published on June 20 at which time only two citizens appeared. It would seem from the foregoing that sufficient notice had been given by the City Council to the general public relative to the proposed increase in city expenditures.

Respectfully submitted,

DR. JESSIE A. RUSSELL, Chairman.
JAMES W. PEARSON,
W. L. TRUITT,
Committee.

SCHOOLS PLAN FOR EDUCATION WEEK IN THIS CITY

President Harding Gives His Endorsement to Project; Statements Issued

American Education Week will be observed next week throughout the entire United States.

"American Education Week was initiated by the American Legion in 1921 for the purpose of removing illiteracy, instilling patriotism and paving the way for a higher and better type of American citizenship in the future," asserted Atty. Eugene J. Wix of 111 East Broadway, member of the American Legion committee on education.

"There is probably no movement on foot today that is of greater importance to the American people than the observance of American Education Week throughout the land," he continued. "Any solution for the problems confronting us today must in the last analysis be found in education and education alone."

To Attract Attention

Richardson D. White, superintendent of the grammar school system, spoke on the subject as follows:

"Next week has been set apart by proclamation of the President of United States as American Education Week for the purpose of focusing the attention of the entire nation upon its public school system for that length of time.

"It is seldom that the average citizen has the time or the opportunity to make a study of the school system to appreciate its objectives and to discover how far it is efficiently and economically attaining those objectives. It is decidedly in the interest of good school management that the citizens of a community understand and appreciate actual school conditions.

"Furthermore, it is only through such knowledge on the part of the citizens that we can hope to have a close co-operation between the schools and communi-

BURBANK WANTS ROTARY CHAPTER

Delegation Present at Local Meeting, Saying Twenty Await Organization

A delegation of prominent citizens from Burbank, headed by their mayor, J. C. Crawford, appeared before the weekly gathering of the Rotary club Wednesday noon, as proponents of the movement to found a chapter of that organization in their city. The other two members of the delegation were W. S. Sandison and J. J. King.

Mayor Crawford, leading the speakers, pointed out the need for a Rotary club in Burbank and assured the gathering that there were twenty members ready and waiting to join. Mr. Sandison, who followed, pointed out that cities with such organizations were better cities because they had learned that success depends to a large degree upon cooperation. Mr. King concluded the delegation's remarks with the comment that two such neighborly and brotherly cities as Glendale and Burbank ought logically to unite in the handclasp of Rotary and that he looked forward to a day in the near future when this would come to pass.

Survey Authorized

In answer to these progressive citizens of Burbank, Chairman Roy L. Kent of the local chapter stated briefly the present status of the movement. The proposal that Burbank should have a Rotary club, he said, had been taken up with Jack Williams, district governor, through whom in turn it had been taken up with International Rotary and a survey authorized. This survey, Chairman Kent explained, had been made and the results handed over to District Governor Williams, where they were at the present time being analyzed. Chairman Kent requested the delegation to remain after the meeting, at which time he would confer further with them.

In addition to the Burbank contingent, the club entertained another guest, Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of the local Red Cross drive. She stated that the members enrolled from November 11, the opening day of the drive, until November 29, were 1685 out of their 2000 quota and that they expected to go "over the top" by that night. She was proud and happy, she said, to think that Glendalians had responded so whole-heartedly to this worthy cause and only hoped they might exceed the quota by as much as possible.

Money for Local Chapter

"The reason I want our quota exceeded," Mrs. White explained, "is because of the method by which Red Cross funds are di-

Two Wedding Services By Rev. E. E. Ford

Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed two Thanksgiving wedding ceremonies early this week.

He was the officiant Tuesday night, November 28, 1922, at the marriage of Miss Lillian Metherall to Ernest Enos, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hester Findley, 1741 Camulus street, Verdugo Woodlands. Mr. and Mrs. Enos are to reside in Corona.

The next night, Wednesday, November 29, 1922, Rev. Ford married Miss Irma Ailene Lyon and Guy Irving Marvin. The wedding took place at the Ford home at 326 Fairview avenue. The young couple will live in Los Angeles at the Lyon home at 5016 Second avenue.

Glendale Goes Over Top for Red Cross

Glendale went over the top splendidly in the 1922 Red Cross roll call, according to Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of the annual drive, who reports that the local quota of $2,000 was reached and passed by approximately $100.

"We are greatly pleased," said Mrs. White this morning. "The response from the Glendale people was most satisfactory and not only insures funds for work this year, but is a prediction that the response next year will be just as satisfying.

"The house to house canvass worked out better than we expected and we are confident that is the best method in conducting the drive and will employ the same method again next year."

Singers to Rehearse Carols for Christmas

Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of the music committee of the local Community Service organization, announces as the two carols to be rehearsed Sunday in the Glendale churches, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," and "Joy to the World." These carols are being prepared for the big community Christmas celebration.

It is the plan of the music committee to have the work on the carols well started when Alexander Stuart, Pacific coast community service musical director, arrives next Tuesday to conduct a week's practice of the carols.

Uncle John Says--

Mary was readin' The Glendale Evening News the other evening and she says, "It looks like every club and society in Glendale is goin' on record against annexation to Los Angeles." I said, "Yes, let's fergit it Mary. The blessed Christmas time will soon be here. Let's plan who we are goin' to try to make happy this year. Let's buy all our presents early and buy 'em in Glendale, and mail 'em early, too."

GLENDALE LODGE OF ELKS TO HOLD ANNUAL MEMORIAL

Impressive Ceremonies Take Place on Sunday Afternoon; Open to Public

"To Our Absent Brothers!" That is the toast pledged each meeting night in the Elks club at the stroke of 11 o'clock, and as an added memorial to those brothers who have passed on Glendale Elks of Glendale Lodge No. 1289 and their friends are to gather Sunday afternoon, December 3, in the Glendale theatre for services at 2:30 o'clock.

"The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands,
Their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory."

This is the poetical inspiration for the memorial services, which are to be featured by lodge ceremonials, special musical numbers and a memorial address.

ILLINOIS LEADS IN ATTENDANCE AT UNION SERVICE

Pennsylvania Comes Second and Iowa Third; Address by Rev. Winnard

The annual union Thanksgiving service yesterday morning at the Central Christian church was attended by more than six hundred persons.

Considerable interest was manifested at the seating arrangement. Under the direction of the Federated Brotherhood the pews had been divided and cards posted with the names of the forty-eight states and Canada. George D. McDill of 1451 East Wilson avenue, president of the Federated Brotherhood, called the roll to which thirty-six representatives of states responded. Canada, England, Scotland, Sweden and Germany were represented, also.

Illinois led with seventy-one present.

Pennsylvania came next with fifty.

Iowa was represented by forty-nine.

Ohio had forty-three.

New York claimed thirty-six.

Indiana, California and Missouri tied with thirty-one.

Sermon by Rev. Winnard

The Thanksgiving sermon was delivered by Rev. James F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian church. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. H. C. Mullen, pastor of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church. President Harding's proclamation was read by Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church. AUNTY ANNEX IS GUEST OF HONOR

Quacks Naturally and Ducks at Every Mention of Words 'Gobble Up'

"Aunty Annex" was the guest of honor Wednesday noon in the Broadway Inn at a banquet of the Glendale Exchange club.

"Anti" was clothed in white feathers and her nose was plentifully decked with natural rouge. Although she seemed somewhat knock-kneed, pigeon-toed, bow-legged and squint-eyed, Caterer William Herzel, who brought her in under cover of a napkin, insisted that she was a perfectly good duck.

She was officially presented by Attorney George H. King of 106 East Broadway to Dewey Goldman of 148 South Brand boulevard, winner of the attendance prize for the occasion.

After mature deliberation a committee consisting of Mrs. Ed N. Radke, Mrs. George H. Thomas and Mrs. T. P. Neally, officially named the aforesaid duck "Aunty Annex," as recommended by Captain D. Ripley Jackson.

Lively and Hungry

The dinner was attended by about sixty Exchangeites and Exchangettes." "Aunty" looked them over and squawked that they looked like a lively bunch all right, but intimated that she would not trust many of them too much if they got hungry—so far as she was concerned.

A toast to the women was given by Attorney W. Claire Anspach of 111 East Broadway. He remarked that the women needed no eulogy because they speak for themselves. He asserted that the "women are the fairest work of the Great Author, that the edition is large and that no man should be without a copy."

Captain W. B. Kelly of 106 West Colorado street, president of the club, acted as toastmaster.

Real Turkey Dinner

The turkey dinner served by the staff of the Broadway Inn was the object of much praise. Generous slabs of turkey were hidden behind a mountain of dressing and mashed potatoes at one side of which was a lake of cranberry sauce. Hot mince pie and pineapple sherbet served as dessert.

An immense fruit cake, donated by the Hazen J. Titus Cake Co., and bearing the emblem of the club, was cut for the occasion.

The feast was followed by a musical program which was much applauded and enjoyed by those present. Several selections were played upon a Hawaiian steel guitar by Mrs. Ruth Edith Lane, whose studio is located in the Monarch building. Two piano numbers were played by Miss Alma Geiger of 627 North Central avenue who also accompanied Mrs. Irving H. Fallis of 520 Por-

Sailor Aviator Buys His Own Plane and Makes Long Flight Over High Mountains

Glenn A. Porter and his airplane

LONGMONT, Colo.—Glenn Arthur Porter, ex-Aviation Carpenter's Mate, 2nd Class, of the U. S. Navy, flew from San Diego, California, to his home here when he was discharged from the naval service.

Porter enlisted three years ago at New Orleans, Louisiana, with the intention of becoming a mechanic in the aviation service. He was sent to the Great Lakes Training Station to undergo first the regular period of military training, after which he was given a course at the aviation school. Porter, however, once he got into the aviation game wanted to be more than a mechanic; he wanted to fly for himself, and before long he was up in the air doing all the stunts that other aviators do. His ability to fly was soon evident.

After he had learned to fly, Porter was still unsatisfied. He wanted to have an airplane of his own. It happened that at this time the Navy put some old-time planes on sale, and Porter had been seadog enough to salt away a good chunk of his pay.

The plane he bought was not mechanically perfect and needed overhauling. This is where his training as an aviation mechanic helped. He repaired the plane himself before he started on his successful flight.

SCHOOL PLAN IN KANSAS SUCCESS

Consolidated System Is Said to Prove Satisfactory in Rural Communities

TOPEKA, Kans.—The consolidated school does not cost any less but gives the children better educational opportunities than the ordinary rural school. That is the experience in Kansas, a state which has been working gradually on the consolidated rural school plan for twenty years and which stands ready to say definitely that the consolidated school is a most valuable institution for the rural communities.

There are now ninety-four consolidated school districts in the state with 17,000 children enrolled, 12,000 in the grades and 5000 in high schools. Approximately one-half of the children have to be transported to school and home, and the average transportation time is forty-seven minutes and the cost 16.7 cents for motor bus and 22.6 for horse-drawn busses.

Each Handling One Grade

"The consolidated rural school gives to the children of the country the same quality of educational opportunities that are provided by the schools of the most up-to-date city in this or any other state," said Miss May Cain, rural school supervisor for the state superintendent of public instruction. "It does not reduce school taxes. It just gives more for the money. Doubtless, in some cases it has increased taxes slightly. But the average tax levy is 8.6 mills on the dollar of valuation.

"By increasing the area and the valuation, the consolidated school is given greater funds to work with. Instead of half a dozen one-room, ungraded schools, they have a complete graded grammar and high school. Every person familiar with education knows the greater progress children make in the grades. Educators realize that a teacher cannot give her best services when her effort is scattered through all the grades from primary to the first years of high school. The district is able to pay as good salaries as the city schools and to obtain teachers of the highest ability and the best training.

Promotes Good Citizenship

"One of the great valuable considerations of the rural consolidated school is that it brings together a larger number of children and establishes greater social contacts throughout the community. It builds up a school spirit and a community spirit that helps in the building of good citizens and in making the community more active and interested in all civic affairs. Isolation is one of the worst features of country life. The consolidated school abolishes isolation to a considerable extent, for when children are brought together the parents naturally move toward the same center."

GERMAN PEOPLE LACK NECESSITIES

Get Better Wages Than Ever Before, but Prices Are Also Much Higher

By C. H. HADDOX

For International News Service.

LIMA, Ohio.—German workingmen are finding it almost impossible to support their families on the wages they receive, according to Leon Loewenstein, who recently returned to his home here from a trip to Europe.

"Notwithstanding that wages are higher than ever before in the history of Germany, prices are advancing at a rapid pace," declared Loewenstein. "Necessities of life are nearly out of reach of the common people. Prices advanced from 200 to 1,000 per cent in the last three months.

"In the face of such economic conditions, there is no idleness in Germany. Every factory that can obtain raw material is working. There seems to be a desire on the part of everyone in the country to improve the national condition," Loewenstein said.

They Like Republic

"The universal opinion, outside of Berlin, is that the country will not return to a monarchial government. The Republic has endeared itself to the people, who feel that the German reparations to the Allies should be paid, but who frequently express the desire for a longer time in which to pay."

Low cost of traveling in Germany is shown by Loewenstein's experience in going from Cologne to Stuggart. The trip consumed two hours on the fastest express train in Germany. A party of three made the journey at a total cost of fifty cents in United States currency.

Discussing industrial conditions in Germany, Loewenstein said:

"Just as John D. Rockefeller is the controlling power of the Standard Oil company and its subsidiaries, just so is Hugo Stinnes the leader in almost every industry and business in Germany.

Controls Many Things.

"Stinnes owns mines which produce every mineral found in the country, heads companies which convert the minerals into raw materials and controls concerns which make the finished products. He also controls the shipping on all the German rivers and controls the electric and telephone systems of Germany.

"Every village and hamlet has electric lights—a thing unthought of a few years ago. It is possible to talk over the telephone from every part of Germany.

"Railroads, which are partly under Stinne's control; run regularly. There seems to be an improvement in schedules over prewar conditions," said Loewenstein.

The Right Way to Buy Clothes

You may think that all we're here for is to sell something; but we're doing something more important than that.

Our business is, first of all, to have a good supply of the right things to wear for men; to buy them and sell them, as nearly as we can at the right prices; but chiefly to help you get the thing you want, the thing that's "just right" for you.

Helping men buy is a lot more interesting than just selling 'em something. Just drop in and see how well it works.

Three Dead, Number Hurt In Hotel Fire

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1.—Three men were suffocated to death and the lives of more than seventy-five others were endangered by a fire which swept the Ben Hur hotel here early this morning.

Two unidentified Filipinos and a white man lost their lives when they were trapped by the blaze and smoke clouds. Firemen carried about fifty men and women from the second and third story windows to safety.

The fire started from an explosion in the basement. Lodgers were forced to leave the structure in their night clothing and nearly all lost their personal belongings. Damage is estimated at about $40,000.

Democrats Agree to Lay Aside Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Democratic filibuster against the Dyer anti-lynching bill was practically crowned with victory this afternoon when the senate adjourned until tomorrow as a mark of respect to the late Representative Mann of Illinois.

The Democrats agreed to the adjournment, laying their filibuster temporarily aside first to permit action on resolutions of condolence to Mann's family and for attendance of the senate at the funeral.

It was indicated a "gentle men's agreement" to end the filibuster by "killing" the Dyer bill would be adopted at a conference between Republican and Democratic leaders later in the day.

War Hero Admits He Is Bit 'Nervous'

LONDON.—"I used to feel in an awful funk at times. It is absurd to say you do not. I have yet to meet the fellow who will lie in his berth at the bottom of the sea and be depth charged and not suffer from cold feet!"

This is the frank confession of one of the most courageous men who took part in the war—Commander Norman D. Holbrook, V. C., who gained his Victoria Cross for his intrepidity as a submarine commander.

"I felt the strain, but did not realize it at the time," he told the committee which has been inquiring into "shell shock." When you get back to harbor you must have rest. You feel like a washed-out rag. With all those mines around you you do not want a depth charge too close to send you to glory.

"I never came across cases of shell shock in the submarine service, although I have known lots of cases of 'nerves.' The two things to my mind, are indistinguishable."

Movable metallic type were invented by Gutenberg of Germany about 1450.

Tribute of Nation Will Be Paid Mann

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1.—A national tribute such as has seldom been accorded a member of congress, will be paid tomorrow to representative James A. Mann, veteran Illinois member of the house, who died at his home here last night after a quarter of a century service in congress.

Plans made today call for an official funeral, the services to be held in the hall of the house of representatives at 2 p. m. tomorrow, attended by the president, members of the cabinet and the supreme court of the United States.

Sermons will be preached by the Rev. James Sherwood Montgomery, chaplain of the house, and the Rev. James E. Freeman, rector of the church of the Epiphany. Committees of the senate and house will be named during the day to accompany Representative Mann's body to Chicago. These committees will include the Illinois delegation in congress and old friends of the former Republican leader.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Too Much Meat

No man or woman who eats lots of meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much meat may form uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only a part of the waste and poisons from the blood; then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

American Legion Ball Will Be Big Event

The annual charity ball to be given by American Legion Post 127, in their hall at 610 East Broadway tomorrow night, promises to be one of the big affairs of the season.

The response of the public to buy tickets at the moderate admission price of $1 each is said to be very encouraging.

The women of the Legion are also taking a hand in the preparations and will have charge of the punch bowl as well as decorations. Eddie Moniot's famous five-piece orchestra will chime the time with the latest dance music.

All in all, tomorrow night, the night of the American Legion ball, promises to be a big night.

Recreation Class Will Meet Tonight

The Community Service recreation class will be held in the gymnasium in the basement of the main High school building hereafter, instead of in the new girls' gymnasium. The class meets tonight at 7:30 o'clock and newcomers will be welcomed, as well as those who have already attended the play nights. There will be but two more of these classes with the instructor from national Community Service, next Monday and Friday evenings, so it is important that those who wish to learn more about planning and conducting social activities attend tonight if possible.

Factory District of Toledo Is Fireswept

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 1.—Fanned by a strong gale, fire of unknown origin today is sweeping the factory district of this city. The Toledo Steel and Tube company plant and the Sandusky Cooperage and Lumber company buildings have been destroyed and the flames are still spreading.

Explosion of several drums of carbide in the steel plant hampered the firemen's work. Damage approximating $200,000 already has been done.

OFFICER HEARS BULLET

A bullet whistled past Officer D. L. Fleming of 515 Myrtle street about 9 o'clock last night while he was patroling his beat on the north side of Maple street a short distance east of Brand boulevard. A search of the neighboring vacant lots and neighborhood was made by Patrolman Fleming and Lieut. Joe Griffin but they failed to find the owner of the gun.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. STELLA M. ECKERT

Mrs. Stella M. Eckert died last night Thursday, November 30, 1922 at the family home at 454 West Stocker street at the age of 69 years. Her death followed an illness of several months.

She is survived by her husband, August Eckert; three daughters, Mrs. Mabel Landen and Mrs. Agnes Killie, who resided at home, and Mrs. Ester Prindle of 541 West Lexington drive; one son, Sterling Eckert of Milwaukee, Wis.; and a sister Mrs. Kate Metzler of Santa Barbara, who is coming to attend the funeral.

The Eckerts are known in Glendale for their connection with the Home Grocery in the Stocker street district.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eckert will be held at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the chapel of the Jewel City Undertaking company, Rev. J. Soper officiating. Interment will take place in Grand View Memorial park.

MRS. AMANDA C. JENSEN

Mrs. Amanda C. Jansen died in Glendale, November 29, 1922, at the age of 78. She is survived by a son, Fred W. Jansen, and a sister in the east.

Funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the Little Church of the Flowers, with Rev. W. W. Cookman officiating. Interment, with the L. G. Scovern Undertaking company in charge, was in Forest Lawn cemetery.

ANDROS SANTAS

Funeral services for Andrew Santas, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Santas, of Glendale, who died November 29, 1922, were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the Holy Family Catholic church.

Interment, with the L. G. Scovern Undertaking company in charge, was in Cavalry cemetery.

Progressives Confer About Their Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—"Constructive, practical, decisive action that will strike swiftly and effectively at the economic evils from which the American people must be freed," was declared by Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, to be the chief objective of the progressives which opened here today with a meeting of present and newly elected progressive members of congress at the capitol.

Behind the closed doors of the Senate agricultural committee room a militant group of progressive representatives of the Republican, Democratic, non-partisan and farmer-labor parties set to work on a legislative program which they hoped would meet the pressing needs of the people "back home."

Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who was not expected to attend the meeting, appeared suddenly and delivered an address in which he expressed hearty sympathy with any movement for effective legislation "for the greatest good of the greatest number."

Senator-elect Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, the first member of the senate to be elected by the farmer-labor party, was present.

"The election revealed unmistakably," said Shipstead, "that the people are awakening to a full realization of the terrible price they have paid for remaining asleep to what has been going on around them.

"I have just come from the northwest where frightful economic conditions surround the farmer, the merchant, the worker, and the small banker. The people of Minnesota and North Dakota alone have spoken for a clean, honest, economic and financial system."

H. L. Miller Opens So. Glendale Office

The H. L. Miller company of 109 South Brand boulevard today announced the opening of a branch office at 1430 South San Fernando road in southern Glendale.

"We do not think that we need any introduction to the people of Glendale," remarked H. L. Miller this morning. "We have been doing business in Glendale for sixteen years and for twenty-six years in Los Angeles county."

The new branch office has been rented for two years and will be in charge of D. L. Terry, who was formerly in the real estate business in San Francisco, and Mrs. H. L. Miller. Miss Mattson will act as stenographer.

"We solicit your listings and they will certainly be looked after in a business-like manner," declared Mr. Miller. "We are agents for twelve independent fire insurance companies and also handle compensation, burglary, plate-glass and automobile insurance. As matter of fact, we will handle everything in connection with a first class real estate and insurance office."

FOOTBALL GAMES BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Trojans and Penn State to Meet at Pasadena on New Year's Day

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Football results yesterday ringing down the curtain for the 1922 season with the exception of the post-season encounters had a clarifying effect on the Pacific coast situation.

Through the failure of Oregon to defeat Washington university and the defeat handed Washington State by University of Southern California, the southern eleven became beyond all doubt the logical representative of the conference in the East vs. West contest New Year's day at Pasadena. It is expected the conference will probably name the Trojans as carrying the western honors.

Defeat of Penn State by Pittsburgh takes some of the edge off the New Year's clash at Pasadena and adds interest to the clash at Stanford December 30, when Pop Warner will bring his eastern proteges west to meet his western proteges.

Pitt's stock has gone up in the east decidedly through defeat of W. & J. and Penn State, and it appears that the Pittsburgh eleven has finally found itself after a bad start. Stanford is to begin preparations next week for the contest and Andy Kerr hopes to have his eleven in fine fettle to meet the easterners.

Trojans Willing to Contest Penn State

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—University of Southern California's football team today stands ready to represent the west in the annual gridiron classic against a representative eleven, Penn State, at Pasadena New Year's day.

Defeat of Washington State by the Trojans yesterday to the tune of 41 to 3 and the elimination of the University of Oregon and the University of Washington, as the result of a 3 to 3 tie, leaves the Pacific coast conference with but one alternative, that of selecting U. S. C.'s powerful aggregation as the western team.

Fifteen Gunmen In Party Slaying Man

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Gunmen of the Waiters' club in the downtown district early today and without warning opened fire, killed Frank J. Ragan, manager of the club, and former president of the Waiters' Union, No. 7, and shooting Police Sergeant Archie Cooper just above the heart. There were at least fifteen gunmen in the invading party. About forty men were in the rooms when the gunmen entered.

Ragen, fearing trouble, had asked that policemen be assigned to protect the club. At 7 o'clock this morning twenty men were under arrest in connection with the killing.

100 Persons Killed, Wounded In Rioting

MEXICO CITY. Dec. 1.—Federal troops patrolled the streets around government buildings today following the outbreak of rioting Thursday when about 100 persons were killed and wounded.

Police fired with machine guns upon a mob of 2000 persons who stormed the city hall to protest against the water famine. In the excitement that followed it was impossible to say definitely how many had been killed outright, but the number was estimated at from twenty to thirty. It was not until early today when federal troops were called out that quiet was restored.

Ringleaders of the mob set fire to the city hall and it was damaged by flames.

Mexico City has been without water for about nine days, except what could be carried in. Public indignation grew so intense that a hostile demonstration was planned. Members of the municipal council were accused of the collapse of the water works through negligence.

While one section of the mob was battling with police around the city hall several hundred other members marched to the national palace to demand immediate relief measures from President Obregon.

Sees Difficulties In Selecting West's Team

CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 1.—"I can see difficulties ahead in the selection of the western team to play Penn State at Pasadena."

This was Dr. U. G. Duback's statement today in commenting on the outcome of the Thanksgiving games. The president of the Pacific coast conference said that selection may be deferred until the conference meeting in Seattle, December 8 and 9.

"Voting blanks have been mailed to all the members of the conference, but it is unlikely that an agreement can be reached immediately," he stated. "The tie game between Oregon and Washington complicates matters considerably."

Dr. Duback indicated that University of Southern California, University of Oregon and University of Washington were the teams under consideration.

The WORLD OVER
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.

Harvard says she'll not play any more football against those rough little Princeton boys unless they promise to be more ladylike. Which reminds some of the old timers that, some years back, Harvard made the same complaint when the Tigers beat her to the tune of 41 to 15. Naughty, naughty Princeton boys.

For the sage of the game of golf, it is hoped that no stench will arise through the discussion of what should be paid professionals by the clubs of the country for exhibition games. There is a reasonable and an unreasonable compensation that easily should be determined by an impartial tribunal. There is no question that it is an inspiration for golfers to watch a pair of experts tee off and play over a course. There is a keen enjoyment on the part of the golf fan in watching the play and, as he gets a lot of valuable ideas, it also tends to improve his game, making for better play all round.

When it is considered that each Saturday there are, all over the country, about thirty so-called major games played and that no critic can be present at more than one of these games each week, the utter futility of any one man presuming to pick an All-American team of football champions plainly is evident. The nearest the idea can be carried out with any degree of fairness is the picking of the best men to comprise a sectional team. Thus the critics can fairly well agree on an all-Pacific coast combination, an all-Big-Ten Conference team, and so forth.

The question has been asked: Does the concerted cheering at a college football game inspire the players to greater effort? Many players will tell you they get the thrill from the cheering, the bands and the noise when they come out on the field so that it sets their blood to tingling but that once the game is started, they are so immersed in the play that they are not conscious of it unless it happens to interfere with the hearing of the signals; and then it becomes a nuisance rather than anything else.

The girls at Stanford university, the co-eds, have joined their brethren in the matter of spectacular rooting and have a cheering section all their own and all hands that occupy it must wear a regulation red and white rooters' hat with a red "S" inscribed on it. The hats are used as a uniform background on which to stage various "color stunts" during the games and intermissions.

Love for Dog Lands Him In Prison Cell

DALLAS, Tex.—Frank Fessendon, grayhaired and nearly 70 years old, is a huckster. He has few friends, but "Conia," a small woolly "cur" dog, he loves. "Conia" is his constant companion and guards his wagon while his master is away.

While a group of men were standing around a fire in an open lot, Tom Allen, also gray haired and approaching 80, kicked the small pet. Fessendon remonstrated with him. A quarrel ensued, and, according to Fessendon's story to the police, Allen attacked him with a knife. In self defense, he says, he snatched a burning ember from the fire and struck Allen on the head with it, inflicting painful cuts and bruises. Allen was treated at the Emergency hospital, but was able to walk home. Shortly afterward, however, he fainted and was rushed to Parkland hospital, where he died.

PRINCETON LEADS SEASON OF 1922

Cornell May Dispute This but That's That and Walsh Says So

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Cornell having been obliging enough to engage in a case of self-elimination through its unimpressive exhibition against Pennsylvania yesterday, Princeton can and will take undisputed rank at the head of all western football for the now defunct season of 1922.

This assertion may cause Cornell men to hold an indignation meeting and our critics will disagree with the salient fact, to-wit: That Cornell and Princeton football bear all the striking little similarities of a steam Rolls-Royce.

Absence of Punch

Cornell showed itself to be a team of undoubted power but so lacking in driving power as to be held for downs four times. This, of course, may have been a case of sound Pennsylvania defense, but on the whole, it was the absence of punch and variety when needed which so embarrasses Cornell's pretention today.

It ran right over and through Pennsylvania, at times, gaining 16 downs to 2, but at all times its seeming object was an open covenant openly arrived at. Apparently, it felt that it had nothing to conceal, and if so, it carried out the part in toto.

In consequence it defeated Pennsylvania 9 to 0, where in team strength it should have won by 30 points.

The Sport Crucible
By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Before the worthy Mr. Ruth sinks for the third and last time into temporary oblivion down on the farm, it might not be at all remiss to state that our dear, old fat friend was made the victim of a fallacy in the general condemnation of his hitting last season. This much to give the gentleman his due:

It was openly charged and generally accepted as fact that Ruth was a "bust" in home-run hitting. the belief being based on the fact that he hit only 35 homers agains 59 in 1921. The fact of the matter is that Ruth enjoyed almost as much success in hitting home runs last season as he ever did before.

Where he was a distinct "bust" was in his gratuitous misbehavior on the ball field, his lack of condition, his failure to field up to his 1921 form and his lack of consistency in hitting.

So far as home runs were concerned he nearly succeeded in keeping pace with previous records. Appearing in only 110 games, because of numerous suspensions for one thing or another, he hit 35 homers for an average of one in every 3.14 games. In 1920 he smote 54 in 140 games and in 1921 it was 59 for 152 games, an average of something like one for every 2.59 games. The difference is not great enough to condemn a man as a "bust" offhand and without further ado.

What was really missing and what made Ruth a pronounced failure in the world series was his inability to come through with ordinary base hits. Swinging from his shoetops at all times it was either a case of a home run or a strike out. Unfortunately, it was mostly the latter in the big series. In fact, he got only two hits in five games, and neither of them bore even a faint resemblance to a home run.

Had he driven out a single or a double in an occasional pinch his failure to hit them out of the park might have been remarked upon, but the effect would have been negligible.

The sense of the whole proposition is that too much emphasis was laid upon Ruth's ability to hit them beyond the fences. Unquestionably his home runs drove in many tallies and won quite a few ball games, but Ruth's real value to the team lay in his menace to the opposing defense and in the fact that he was a .360 hitter. This latter meant that he was cuffing out a few singles and doubles of no doubtful value.

Last season his average fell off considerably—much more so, in fact, than his comparative dearth of homers, for which he was so roundly reviled. His fielding, likewise, suffered a bad rally, as the fellow said.

These defections cost the Yankees more heavily than the mere difference involved in the matter of whether he smote one homer in every 2.59 games or one for every 3.14 games.

PRAISES REALTY BOARD'S EFFORTS

Head of State Association Pays Tribute to Members of Glendale Board

"Glendale has one of the liveliest real estate boards in the state. And with the character of the men comprising its membership, it should develop into an organization of which any community might be proud.

This was the tribute paid to members of the Glendale Real Estate Board Wednesday by C. C. Tatum, president of the California Real Estate association, who addressed the local board at its weekly luncheon and meeting at the Broadway Inn.

O. A. Vickerey, pioneer real estate man of Los Angeles, who accompanied Mr. Tatum to Glendale, also made a brief address.

Mr. Tatum, who is touring the state in behalf of the Eighteenth Annual State Convention of Real Estate Men, which convenes in Santa Ana from December 7-9, inclusive, told his listeners that there were a number of important legislative matters to come up at the state meet and that he wanted to see all of the Glendale membership present.

Many in L. A. County

He told the assemblage also that California has ninety-seven real estate boards, and is the largest organization of its kind in the United States. Of the total boards, he said that approximately one-third are located in Los Angeles county.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, who with James W. Pearson and W. L. Truitt, was a member of the committee appointed by the real estate board to journey to Los Angeles for the purpose of finding out first hand whether Glendale had been discriminated against by the county assessor in the assessed valuation of its properties, reported to the membership that the committee of which she was one found that Glendale is receiving impartial treatment from the tax collector's office.

A full text of the information obtained in Los Angeles by the committee will be published verbatim in the local papers, according to a resolution passed by the membership.

Other motions adopted by the board includes the naming of a committee for rectifying city real estatet records, so that they would be accessible and in practical and accurate condition at all times; the naming of a committee to cooperate with the Kiwanis club in establishing a Christmas tree for the deserving of the city, and to support Sacramento at the coming convention in securing the 1923 meet.

The real estate board also went on record as endorsing the action of the civic government in purchasing the tract of land known as Verdugo park, which will be utilized as a recreational center. Mayor Spencer Robinson, who was present at the meeting, made a brief speech in which he said that the action of the board was indeed timely in that certain groups in the city were censuring the city for making the purchase.

C. D. Thom, president of the realty board, presided at the meeting. E. P. Hayward, secretary, read the minutes.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

FOR THE SHUT-INS CHRISTMAS

A friend of mine has a very dear relative who has been for many years a shut-in. Every year at Christmas she sends this relative a little box of gifts. She does not have a very full purse from which to do this but she has a very full heart and a very fine sympathetic imagination and out of these she has developed a technique of giving to shut-ins which I think is well worth describing.

Something to Think About

"The thing to remember," she says, "when you are giving to people like this is that what means the most to them is something to think about, something to talk about, something to occupy the time. A thing that costs $1 may have more pleasure in it than a thing that costs $10. Unless there is some one big thing the person specially wants I think several little gifts are far better than one large one. A box of little gifts will mean more than one large gift."

And here are some of the things she has given from time to time.

Several packages of bulbs to be started at different times so that the invalid will always have something growing to watch.

A birthday book in which she has written down all the birthdays of various friends and relatives of the invalid and into which she has put a supply of birthday cards so that the invalid may have the interest of sending out those cards, and the further joy of receiving an acknowledgment.

Flower seeds from various friends' gardens for her window boxes.

Costs Nothing but Time

A list of books that the invalid may enjoy. She always keeps the name of any book she herself has found interesting and is constantly on the outlook for hints from other friends. One of the hardest things for a shut-in is to get hold of interesting things to read without being able to get out to the library herself. Such a list of books is a real treasure.

A friendship calendar, which is a calendar to which she has gotten this woman's friends to contribute by sending them the leaves of which it is composed, and asking them to write a message or a favorite quotation, or paste a snapshot onto each leaf. This means a lot of work, but it is one of the gifts that any shut-in enjoys most because it is a daily interest through the year.

Short stories from magazines which she has especially enjoyed and has cut out and bound in brown paper covers. Serials from magazines collected and treated in the same way.

A book of snapshots of those of the invalid's friends and relatives whom she is not often able to see.

Can You Suggest Other Ideas?

A book of solitaire rules.

The latest thing in puzzles.

A sunshine calendar, which is a calendar gotten out for people interested in the weather, and is so arranged that by sticking on little stickers of various colors (supplied with the calendar) one can keep a record of the amount of sunshine and be able to confute those people who are always saying the sun hasn't shone for a whole week.

These are a few of the gifts this woman remembers giving in the last two or three years. She is always on the look-out for new ones and hopes my Reader Friends may have some ideas to contribute in exchange.

Tomorrow—Wives and Horses.

Beauty Chats

WINTER TIME COLD CREAMS

Complexions which are particularly dry, or particularly sensitive to climatic conditions, will often chap during the severe part of the winter in spite of cold creams and massage. Such complexions need a special sort of cold cream for winter time use.

The ordinary cream I recommend for general massage and cleansing purposes is an inexpensive product made with mineral oil. In other words, it is like the good average cream you purchase. But there is another finer cream which I generally recommend for wrinkles which is just the thing for cold weather use. It will keep the most sensitive skin from chapping and growing rough in the most biting sort of weather. The formula is as follows:

Rose water	4 ounces
Almond oil	4 ounces
Spermaceti	1 ounce
White wax	1 ounce
Benzoin	1 drachm

This must be made carefully as it is more difficult to manage than my cleansing cream. The white wax and spermaceti and the almond oil are melted together and removed from the fire just as they have blended. The rose water with the benzoin has meantime been heated a little more than lukewarm. Both pans are taken from the heat and the rose water slowly poured into the oils and the whole is stirred and beaten until it begins to whiten and congeal. It is then poured off into jars and allowed to cool.

Olive oil may be substituted for almond oil, it is quite as good and generally less expensive. If you want the cream not quite so thick use four and a half ounces of oil.

Discouraged.—When the bust appears to be too large, the effect may be changed by wearing the corset loosened at the waistline. The straight one-piece frock, which is very loosely confined below the waist, will be a means of detracting from any over-development of the bust. Learn how to dress so the bust is not noticeable, which is much better than trying to reduce it through any artificial methods.

Miss G. R. S. F.—A formula for a cream and directions for reduction will be mailed to you, but cannot be printed at this time. In making the request, include a s. a. e. for mailing.

(Tomorrow—Diet Menus)

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. I. R.—You want to know if a combination of epsom salts and soap rubbed into the body will cause a reduction of weight. It is possible that some of the epsom salts are absorbed by the skin and a laxative effect may be experienced from this absorption and some water taken from the system through the bowels. This might mean a temporary loss of weight. I doubt very much if there is any permanent good in such practice—unless the good comes from the massage, which, of course, is good in itself.

I have no experience myself with this method and I think there has been no research work done on it. I do know of two women who tried the epsom salt baths for a long period with no effect whatever.

I do not recommend epsom salts taken internally every day as some people do when they are reducing. Any prolonged taking of physics is harmful. The only way to reduce is to reduce the in-take of calories and to increase the amount of exercise.

You speak of the elastic stocking for ankles and legs. This, also, is something upon which I have no data. I should be glad for any of you who have used them to write me your results.

It seems reasonable to think that they might be beneficial. We know that going without a corset if we are overweight seems to cause us to spread and the fat to be a little looser around the hips and abdomen. Perhaps the elastic stockings might act as a little controlling force on the ankles and legs as corsets do on the abdomen and hips.

I have heard some bad reports from rubber garments. That is that they cause an extreme irritation and a breaking out on the skin. This is probably due to the heat and the moisture, causing the germs that are ever present on the skin to multiply and get a foothold.

Mrs. S. K.—The causes of superfluous hairs are obscure. It may be a racial or a family trait, or there may be some disfunctioning of the internal glands. Anything that causes the blood to come in excess to a part may cause a growth of hairs; this has been demonstrated in patients who have plasters and liniments for a long period over neuralgic spots, etc.

There is only one method we knowm of for removing superfluous hair that is of permanent value, and that is electrolysis in the hands of an expert. In an article I wrote recently I said that if I were afflicted with a heavy growth of coarse hair on my face I would shave it if I could not get it off any other way. Of course, shaving or the use of depilatories makes the growth still coarser and heavier and so the use of them has to be kept up regularly.

I should like to emphasize the fact that I am not referring to the down we all have on our faces, but to the luxurious heavy growths that are really disfiguring.

Depilatories keep the hair off longer than shaving. We have a formula for a safe one if you wish it. Hairs can be rendered less conspicuous by bleaching with peroxide of hydrogen. Some authorities state that a thorough use of this will retard the growth of fine hair.

BUFFET SUPPER FOR TWENTY

Iced Pimiento Consomme
Moulded Chicken Pear Chips
Hot Baked Ham Cider Sauce
Hot Rolls Buttered
Orange Ice Cream Nut Cake
Salted Nuts Mints
Coffee Ginger Ale Punch

It is much easier to serve a crowd buffet fashion than at a large table or at several small tables. The dining room table should have dainty linen center piece and table decoration appropriate to the occasion and the season. All of the silver necessary to the proper serving of the food provided should be upon the table, together with napkins and plates. Everything on the table should be neatly arranged for easy serving of the food by the guests themselves.

In arranging the above menu I have included dishes that could be prepared far enough in advance of the time of serving so there need be no hurried preparations at the last moment. This is an important item, too often overlooked by most hostesses.

Some Recipes for Buffet Supper

Iced Pimiento Consomme—Remove fat from three quarts consomme, and clear, using the white and shell of three eggs and eight canned pimientos which have been forced through a fine strainer. Chill thoroughly and serve in small cups.

Moulded Chicken — Wipe a knuckle of veal, put in soup pot, with two pounds lean veal and one pound lean pork, cover with cold water and bring to boiling point, then simmer until meat is tender, adding the last hour of cooking, two teaspoons salt. Cut the head off near the body and the feet below the first joint of two good sized tender fowl. Singe, split down back, without separating; place in pot, cover with boiling water and cook slowly until meat is tender, adding the last hour of cooking two teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, three tablespoons finely minced onion, and one teaspoon lemon juice, two sprigs parsley and one-half cup celery, cut in small pieces. Remove and put aside to cool, when it should be cut in thin slices. Put the veal and pork meat through meat chopper, using the fine knife, set aside to cool. Let stock simmer until reduced one-half, strain, cool and clear.

Decorate the bottom of brick-shaped moulds with whites and yolks of hardboiled eggs, canned pimentos, cut in fancy shapes and pickles, cut in thin slices; add a very little cold stock by spoonfuls, lest the decoration be disarranged. Place moulds in pans of ice-water. When firm, add alternating layers of chicken, stock and veal until all is used. Cover top layer with buttered paper, on this place pan and weight. Let stand for several hours or over night in refrigerator. Remove from moulds to serving dish and garnish with cress or crisp leaves of lettuce.

Cider Sauce—Melt four tablespoons butter in saucepans, add four tablespoons flour and cook very slowly, while constantly stirring, until nicely browned (not scorched), then pour on, gradually, one and one-half cups hot ham liquor, bring to the boiling point, stirring slowly and cook until thickened, then add one cup cider and salt to taste. Serve hot.

Ginger Ale Punch—Mix one pint bottle grape juice and two quart bottles ginger ale. Put three pints orange sherbet in punch bowl and pour over the ginger ale and grape juice. When sherbet is nearly melted serve in small cups.

Shortly after noon he scaled a high promontory which jutted out into the sea. From its summit he had an unobstructed view of the broad Pacific. His heart leaped to his throat, for there but a short distance out were a great battleship and a trim white yacht —the Alaska and the Lotus! They were steaming slowly out to sea.

He was just in time! Filled with happiness the mucker ran to the point of the promontory and stripping off his shirt waved it high above his head, the while he shouted at the top of his lungs; but the vessels kept on their course, giving no answering signal.

For half an hour the man continued his futile efforts to attract the attention of someone on board either craft, but to his dismay he saw them grow smaller and smaller until in a few hours they passed over the rim of the world, disappearing from his view forever.

Weak, wounded, and despairing, Billy sank to the ground, burying his face in his arms, and there the moon found him when she rose, and he was still there when she passed from the western sky.

For three months Billy Byrne lived his lonely life upon the wild island. The trapping and fishing were good and there was a plentiful supply of good water. He regained his lost strength, recovering entirely from his wounds. The natives did not molest him, for he had stumbled upon a section of the shore which they considered bewitched and to which none of them would come under any circumstances.

One morning, at the beginning of his fourth month of solitude, the mucker saw a smudge of smoke upon the horizon. Slowly it increased in volume and the speck beneath it resolved itself into the hull of a steamer. Closer and closer to the island it came.

Billy gathered together a quantity of dry brush and lighted a signal fire on the lofty point from which he had seen the Alaska and the Lotus disappear. As it commenced to blaze freely he threw fresh, green boughs upon it until a vertical column of smoke arose high above the island.

In breathless suspenses Billy watched the movements of the steamer. At first it seemed that she would pass without taking notice of his signal, but at last he saw that she was changing her course and moving directly toward the island.

Close in she came, for the sea was calm and the water deep, and when Billy was sure that those on board saw him and his frantic waving, he hurried, stumbling and falling, down the steep face of the cliff to the tiny beach at its foot. Already a boat had been lowered and was putting in for the land. Billy waded out to the end of the short shelving beach and waited.

The sight that met the eyes of the rescuers was one that filled them with awe, for they saw before them a huge, giant of a white man, half-naked except for a few tattered rags, who wore the long sword of an ancient samurai at his side, a modern revolver at his hip, and bore in his brawny hand the heavy war spear of a head-hunter. Long black hair and a huge beard covered the man's head and face, but clear gray eyes shown from out the tangle and a broad grin welcomed them.

"Oh, you white men!" shouted the mucker. "You certainly do look good to me."

Six months later a big, smooth-faced giant in ill-fitting sea togs strolled up Sixth Avenue. It was Billy Byrne—broke, but happy; Grand Avenue was less than a thousand miles away!

"Gee!" he murmured; "but it's good to be home again!"

TODAY—New York's reaction to the Wild West show recently concluded at Madison Square Garden is described by Frank Savage, correspondent at New York.

TOMORROW—H. C. Hamilton, Atlanta correspondent, writes of the war on confidence men and "slickers" started by the State government.

By FRANK SAVAGE
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. — The hearts of New Yorkers are as tender as their feet, think the "buckaroos," "cowpunchers" and other exponents of wild western art connected with "Tex" Austin's rodeo, which closed recently at Madison Square Garden.

Austin imported an aggregation of "bulldoggers" and bronco riders, men and women, from the ranges of the middle west and prepared to offer a "regular wild west show." But New Yorkers were moved to compassion for the steers, who seemed to be getting the worst of the deal. Representatives of the police department, humane society and S. P. C. A. swooped down on Mr. Austin with divers and sundry summonses. Finally Judge Max Levine was called upon to decide whether the steers were bellowing "for sheer joy of living," as Austin characterized it, or from pain, as New Yorkers thought. He decided the steers were not suffering.

"Beachcombers" are now busy again at Coney Island and other stretches of sand, salvaging lost trinkets and jewelry left in the sand by careless bathers. Annually the beach combers pan for treasure along the most frequented beaches. They are said to retrieve several thousand dollars' worth of valuables each season.

Greenwich Village is going to move to Flatbush, so we are told. Too many would-be bohemians, with more money than artistic talent, have eagerly leased all of the studio apartments and caused an increase in rentals that has driven the poor artists and literary folk out of their wonted haunts, the victims charge. So a popular member and leader in the colony has picked up bag and baggage and moved to the Brooklyn section, inviting others to follow. Can prosaic, residential Flatbush, so often the butt of Manhattan fun-poking of a distinctly rural trend, rise to the occasion?

Three New York boys, whose ages range between 11 and 12 years, visited the Bronx Zoo. They decided they would like to have a tiger. The keeper couldn't be persuaded to sell, but in response to their inquiries as to where one could be obtained, advised them to go to Jersey, where there were "plenty of blind tigers." Taking the keeper at his word they bought three traps, sailed for the Jersey shore, and late at night reached Midland Park, a wooded section ten miles from Paterson. At a deserted sawmill they found a watchman. He persuaded the boys to go to sleep, notified the police, and the young hunters of Jersey blind tigers were returned to their distracted parents' arms.

It may have been the "Cat's Pajama's" to its Greenwich Village patrons, but it was bad "bees knees" as viewed through the eyes of the police department.

Passersby feared a frightful fire was raging at No. 119 East Eleventh street recently, when the portais of Webster Hall opened to belch forth a surging multitude of men and women attired only in silk robes de nuit. They learned, however, that it was merely the breaking up by the police of the Cat's Pajamas Party," given by Greenwich villagers. The police explained that it was "orders from headquarters."

Fake rabbis who withdraw wines from storage ostensibly for sacramental purposes but actually to circumvent the prohibition authorities are contributing much to intensifying the "humidity" in New York, according to Prohibition Director Yellowley. The official has appealed to the patriotism and religion of the law-abiding Jewish element to intercept these law evaders.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SAMMIES' SAIL

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along one morning, not far from his hollow stump bungalow, when, all of a sudden he saw, coming toward him, Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl.

"Good morning, Susie," greeted Uncle Wiggily politely, with a little twinkle of his pink nose. "You are going to school, I think; aren't you?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Yes," answered Susie, "I am. And I know my lessons, too, so the lady mouse teacher won't keep me in."

"That's fine!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But where is your brother Sammie? Why isn't he going to school with you?"

A serious look came over Susie's funny little face. She glanced up at the bunny gentleman and answered:

"Sammie wouldn't come to school with me this morning."

"My goodness!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, and he twinkled his pink nose faster than ever, "I hope you two children haven't had a quarrel. You and Sammie aren't angry at each other, are you, Susie, my dear?"

"Oh, no! it isn't that!" said Susie, wiggling her paws around on the frozen sand of the path, "but Sammie is doing something —something very strange and— and— mysterious, Uncle Wiggily!" and as Susie said this she shook her head sadly.

"What do you mean by mysterious?" asked the bunny gentleman.

"Well, every morning as soon as he has his breakfast he hops over to the coop of Charlie the chicken boy," explained Susie. "He stays at the coop until he's almost late for school, and then he has to hop like anything, and Charlie has fairly to fly, to get to the hollow stump school on time."

"Oh! then Charlie is in on the mysterious business, too, isn't he, Susie?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, and they won't tell me or anybody what it is," went on the little rabbit girl. "And as soon as Charlie and my brother get out of school they go to the coop again and they shut themselves up until supper time. It's the old coop, where the Chick family used to live, and Charlie has it for a play house and for his wireless," said Susie. "But he and Sammie are very mysterious, Uncle Wiggily, and I'm afraid maybe Sammie will get hurt."

"Oh, don't worry about that!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "The worst that can happen is Sammie and Charlie may be late for school. But you hop along, Susie, and I'll step around to the coop and see that your brother and Charlie leave on time so the lady mouse teacher won't keep them in."

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Wiggily!" said Susie, now smiling.

Uncle Wiggily soon reached the old coop that Charlie had turned into a play house. As the bunny gentleman neared it, Sammie and the chicken boy hurried out.

"Don't be late for school!" called Uncle Wiggily.

"We'll be there on time!" promised Sammie, and Charlie, crowing, said the same thing.

"I'll just peek in the window and see what those chaps are up to," said Uncle Wiggily, but all he saw, on looking in, was an old umbrella. "There can't be anything very mysterious about an umbrella," laughed the rabbit gentleman. "I guess Susie was dreaming."

But later that afternoon, when Uncle Wiggily was on his way home from the store, where he had gone to buy Nurse Jane a new clothes line rope, Susie came running up to Mr. Longears.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Susie. "Come quickly! Sammie is flying away!"

"Sammie flying away! What do you mean?" asked the rabbit. "Do you mean he has borrowed Charlie Chick's wings and is flying on them?"

"No," answered Susie, "but Sammie with Charlie's help, has made a pair of wings out of an old umbrella. This is what they were making in the old coop all this while. And now Sammie is up on top of the hill, and he has the umbrella wings fastened to him and the wind is blowing very hard and Sammie is sailing away!"

And, surely enough, this is just what had happened! Charlie had helped Sammie make a pair of umbrella wings, the rabbit boy had fastened them on and now, in a gale of wind, the umbrella wings were being tried.

"Help! Help, Uncle Wiggily!" crowed Charlie Chick as the bunny gentleman and Susie reached the top of the hill. "There he is!" And there Sammie was, high in the air, the umbrella wings flapping and carrying him higher.

"I'll save him!" cried Uncle Wiggily. With that he made a Wild West lasso of the clothes line. He threw the lasso over Sammie's head and then, with the help of Charlie and Susie, Uncle Wiggily pulled the rabbit boy and his umbrella wings to the ground. Sammie wasn't hurt in the least, though rather frightened.

"Don't do that again, Sammie," said Mr. Longears, and Sammie said he never would. But if the postage stamp doesn't hide itself around on the back of the letter where the postman can't tag it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie's jacket.

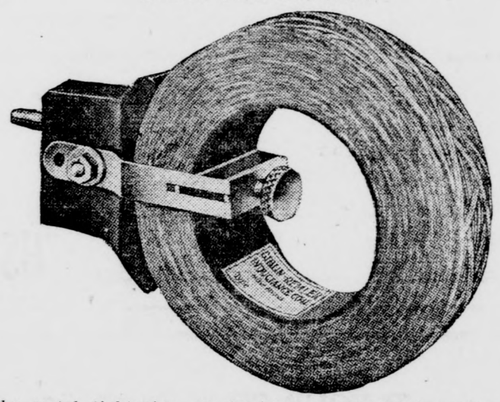
A NEW COIL MOUNTING



The metal tightening, an important feature, eliminates the usual fiber band and assures perfect tightness at all times. By simply turning the thumb screw the coil is rigidly fastened to the coil contour of the bakelite plug. There is no fiber band to become damp and stretch or loosen the coil from its mounting. This is very desirable and it also will be found to have more inductance, less distributed capacity and lower high frequency resistance than is usually found in this type of coil.

RADIO EXPLAINED

By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
INSTRUCTOR U. S. AIR SERVICE

There are two types of primary calls, the "wet" and the "dry" cells. The wet or "gravity" cell, described in the last article, is largely used by telegraph and telephone companies, due to economy and also as it is free from polarization. If a large output is desired, the internal resistance must be low, that is, with a minimum of polarization. In these cells the depolarizer is generally placed in the bottom of the cell and is kept from the electrolyte by gravity, hence the name. The copper electrode is placed in this solution which consists of copper sulphate. The zinc negative plate is kept separate in the sulphuric electrolyte above.

The voltage given by the average cell is between one and two volts per coil. The voltage of a cell depends upon the substances used for plates or electrodes, and is also affected by the electrolytic solution. Therefore many varieties of electrolytes are used when the electrodes are copper and zinc, but all give approximately one volt per cell.

When a certain electromotive force is required and no regular source of supply is available, it is interesting and useful to know that an emergency source of voltage may be obtained by taking two different kinds of metal and placing them in any kind of acid, or even in water. It must be remembered, however, that the solution attacking plates most violently will produce the best results, bearing in mind the above remarks regarding polarization.

TREATMENTS AID MANY PATIENTS

Dr. Maybelle Tinkler Has Well Equipped Office at 107½ South Brand

Southern California sunshine and drugless treatments combine ideally into a sure remedy for the majority of ills in the opinion of Dr. Maybelle Tinkler, drugless physician, with offices at 107½ South Brand boulevard.

Dr. Tinkler recognizes that the majority of human ills are resultant from poisons in the system and she has qualified herself for giving stimulating and eliminating treatments. However, in receiving prospective patients she frankly states that if, after examination, she finds that they require medical or surgical attention she will recommend their going to a medical doctor or surgeon.

Confidence of Patients

This attitude taken by Dr. Tinkler has won her the utmost confidence of her patients and those she has treated are unanimous in the praise of her office equipment and treament methods.

One patient, who has visited offices of the kind in all parts of the state, has complimented Dr. Tinkler by stating that in her opinion Dr. Tinkler has the largest and best-equipped office of its kind, outside of sanitariums, in the state of California.

Before coming to Glendale over a year ago, Dr. Tinkler had offices in Wichita, Kan., and Wichita Falls, Texas, where she had a large group of patients.

Modern Equipment

Associated with Dr. Tinkler in conducting her Glendale office is Dr. Ray J. Myers, chiropractor.

One of the finest pieces of equipment in Dr. Tinkler's office is a Thompson reclining cabinet, for giving radium, sulphur and vapor baths and stimulating and eliminating treatments.

She also has the most modern equipment for giving chiropractic and osteopathic treatments, electrotherapy and hydro-therapy treatments, Swedish massage, oil and alcohol rubs, Epsom salts rubs and salt glow.

Another special feature of Dr. Tinkler's office and treatment is the radium water plant, which she has installed and which is said to produce medicinal water similar to that used in sanitariums in Europe. This water is particularly good for the treatment of rheumatism and blood diseases.

Undoubtedly the best proof of Dr. Tinkler's success are the many cures she has effected and the enthusiastic praise her patients give of the work she has done for them.

WARNING IS GIVEN BY A. G. LINDLEY

Annexation to Los Angeles Would Prove Costly to Building Program

Editor The Evening News—Having been a citizen and property owner in Glendale for more than eight years, I am vitally interested in the welfare of our beautiful and rapidly-growing little city, and have just naturally become a "booster."

Many of the finest people on earth live in Glendale and it has been demonstrated times without number that the large majority of our people stand right on all moral issues when a question is up for decision; and I, for one, desire that we should not surrender our rights as an independent municipality—to continue to settle all such questions for ourselves, and not allow ourselves to become an infinitesimal part of a large city and no longer be able to say "our soul is our own."

Gets Information

I would like to mention a few things that have come to my knowlege and that pertain to the question of "annexation to Los Angeles": By being the architect of the new Community church at Owensmouth, which is about to be erected to replace one that burned nearly a year ago, I have become acquainted with many of the most prominent citizens of that place; and knowing that they had been "annexed" I was anxious to learn how well satisfied they were with their bargain. In answer to my questions I received the following information:

That before annexation the representatives of Los Angeles made numerous alluring promises, not one of which was kept after the annexation took place. That they have had to fight for every consideration they have received and for every public service they have secured. That their taxes are far in excess of what they were before annexation.

Lights Shut Off

While they were an independent community they had many beautiful electroliers with five lights on each lining their principal streets and extending for miles along their highways; but these were immediately shut off when they annexed to Los Angeles, though after a strong protest on their part the city consented to let them have the top lamp lighted on a few of the streets during certain hours. That the beautiful shrubs, trees and flowers along their principal thoroughfare have been almost entirely neglected and are in a dying condition. That while they were provided the aqueduct water for irrigation, they were required to vote a large bond issue to pay for furnishing sand, and another large amount to assume a portiion of the bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles. There were many other "grievances" told to me, but one of the most pertinent suggestions was their advice to Glendale to "keep out of Los Angeles."

Must Pay Premium

They are going to pay a premium of nearly $1000 in added cost of their church building for being forced to conform to the building code of Los Angeles. Same as they were building it in the midst of the city. This is an item that would run up into the thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands — in Glendale, and would affect every building erected here if we were to be taken into Los Angeles. "Taken in," I think, is the correct term to use. Let's "let well enough alone" and stay out.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. —Advertisement.

CHINESE EMPEROR MARRIED TODAY

Young Democratic Leader's Popularity Is Enhanced With Today's Event

By THOSAS MELOY

For International News Service.

PEKING, Dec. 1.—As a courtesy from Republican China, the Dragon flag flew over the "Forbidden city" today for the first time since the abortive monarchial coup of 1917.

This is the boy emperor's wedding day.

Ceremonials of age old origin began yesterday.

The first of interesting ceremonies was the formal issuing by the emperor of an imperial edict creating Princess Kuochiasi empress. The emperor signed the decree written on gold parchment and following a palace ceremony at which the emperor appeared mounted, the document was carried by the highest Manchu princess to the family residence of Princess Kuochiasi.

There the princess, clad in a magnificent imperial yellow satin phoenix robe, awaited the coming of the edict that made her the wife of her ruler and empress without a country.

Princess Enters.

As the prince entered her presence bearing the imperial edict on a satin cushion, the princess kowtowed thrice. Thereafter all of the princes prostrated themselves before her signifying that she had in fact become the wife of the emperor—whom she has never seen.

The palace has been surrounded with dense crowds since early Thursday morning, thousands of troops and police of the republic co-operated in protecting the emperor.

The bride's proxy entered the palace yesterday afternoon. Today the bride arrived with all the pomp due her new station. Behind the walls of the forbidden palace followed the Chinese wedding ceremonies.

Chang Tso Lin, Wu Pei Fu and all high officials of China sent valuable presents to the palace in honor of the occasion but because of their position in the republic were excused from kowtowing.

The young emperor's pleasant and independent personality together with today's event has greatly enhanced his popularity. He has installed many modern innovations at the palace.

It is understood to have been at his wish that the young princess and empress-to-be has been tutored in English. Incidentally she learned to play tennis, make fudge and ride a bicycle from Miss Isabel Graham, Wellesley graduate, her tutor.

Some time ago the emperor, who speaks excellent English, issued an edict naming himself Henry and his empress Elizabeth after British royalty.

Plays "Swanee River"

The wedding ceremonies were ended at exactly 3:45 o'clock this morning. The empress was carried from her home in a closed yellow silk chair to the palace, preceded by the imperial band playing "Swanee River." The dense crowds looked on silently as the yellow chair passed within the huge gates of the Forbidden City.

Among the unofficial guests permitted within the Forbidden City for the unusual occasion were attaches of the American legation, excepting the minister and your correspondent.

The final rites were in hushed secrecy. Later the emperor and empress kowtowed to the tablets of their ancestors, informing them of the wedding.

The princess looked cold from her long early morning jaunt in the silken chair, but cheerful as she became the emperor's bride.

Military Leader to Face Court Hearing

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Captain Erhardt, commander of the troops that seized Berlin at the time of the Kapp uprising in March, 1920, has been arrested in Munich, the stronghold of the German monarchists and militarists, said a dispatch from that city today. He is being taken to Leipsig for trial in the supreme court.

ASSERTS ENGLAND SUPPORTS GREECE

Athens' Dispatch Says Lloyd George and Ex-Premier Venizelos Plotted

By FRANK E. MASON

For International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Revelations that Former Premier Lloyd George of England, and former Premier Elutherios Venizelos of Greece, entered into a secret diplomatic agreement in 1920 by which Great Britain promised to support Greece in the war against Turkey were contained in an Athens dispatch printed by the Matin today. According to the Athens correspondent of the Matin, "there is evidence that the Greeks undertook their military adventure in Asia-Minor at the suggestion of Britain, the Anglo-Greek Near East partnership promising the Greeks financial assistance to carry on the struggle."

Greece, it was further stated, promised equal shares in the subsequent division of Turkey. The cost for carrying on the war was to be imposed upon Turkey in the peace conference.

The Matin printed what purported to be the secret diplomatic reports of M. Venizelos, while the diplomatic relations with Great Britain were in progress. These contain a letter from Venizelos, dated June 19, 1920, in which the former premier reported that the British general staff council had technically advised the Greeks. Communications from Venizelos about the same time warned the Greek government that it could not expect any assistance from France and Italy and that the Greeks should be on the alert against invasion by bands of Bulgarian irregulars over the Thracian frontier.

The British, according to the Matin's revelations, agreed to protect Constantinople and the Turkish straits. Venizelos insisted that the old Ottoman empire be completely patitioned.

While the Turco-Greek war was in progress, said the Matin dispatch, the allies began to consider the advisability of lightening the original Turkish conditions and promising that Greece would force Turkey to accept the treaty of Sevres, and to demobilize the Kemalist army.

Filipino, Crazed by Love, Wounds Eight

MANILA.—Estanislao Puyat, twenty-nine, a Filipino, whose love was spurned by his niece, eighteen years old, threw the girl out of a second-story window twenty feet from the ground, grabbed his bolo and ran amuck down the street, seriously wounding eight people, whom he attacked without provocation. He reached the bay and threw himself into the water in an effort to end his orgy of crime with suicide.

He stabbed out an eye of a Filipino woman sixty-five years old, cut the hands off of two other women, slashed another, forty years old, in the face; slashed a Chinese storekeeper and a Chinese cart driver in the shoulders, inflicting serious wounds on both of them; wounded another Filipino woman on the forehead and left arm, struck a Filipino child eight years old an ugly wound on the neck and a Filipino girl, eighteen years old, a similar nasty blow on the head.

He was forty minutes in the bay before Captain H. H. Elarth dropped a noose over his head and brought him to shore.

The niece is paralyzed from her fall.

What the country needs is an alarm clock that only wakes the man who sets it.

AEROPLANES FOR BRITISH TROOPS

Aerial Trains Now Possible; Machine Already Built, Carries 24 Soldiers

LONDON—Aerial troop trains are now within the realm of possibility.

A giant aeroplane which will carry twenty-four soldiers has already been built and successfully tested by the British Air Ministry.

Further tests are being made with aerial trailers—gliders which will be attached to aeroplanes and which can be uncoupled, landing under their own control.

These two developments lead British air experts to hope that in the future large numbers of troops may be transported by air and that it will never again be necessary to take omnibuses from the streets of London for the transportation of troops.

The tests which have been made thus far demonstrate the feasibility of moving large numbers of troops by air in quick time. It is pointed out by the experts that the new machine, which has been tested, indicates that only ten machines are necessary to carry a full war-strength infantry company at a pace of 100 miles an hour. A fleet of 580 machines of this type could move an entire division. Without taking into account limited aviation field facilities for starting and landing, the experts figure that it is possible to move an entire division from London to Paris within three hours and to Berlin within six hours.

Expect Changes Soon.

The experts admit that in the present stage of aerial development it would hardly be feasible to attempt to move a division by air, but they refuse to concede that troop movements by air will no come within a short time.

The machine, which has been successfully built and tested to carry twenty-four soldiers, was built by the Vickers Company for the Royal Air Force. The machine is similar to the Vickers "Vimy," except that it is much larger. Polished wooden seats are fitted along the inside of the fuselage, and twelve soldiers sit on either side.

Orders have already been placed for a number of these machines for use by the Royal Air Force in Mesopotamia.

A similar machine, known as the "Virginia," is now being constructed, and it will be developed as a giant long-distance bomber. It is expected to be capable of carrying several tons a distance equal to three-quarters of the way across the Atlantic Ocean and back. Without bombs it is believed this machine will be capable of a non-stop return trip to America.

All of these new planes have been designed by Rex Pierson, who has gained fame as the designer of long-distance aeroplanes.

Irish Declare They Discovered America

DUBLIN.—Ireland claims that one of her sons discovered America and is beginning to ask why the world gives Columbus the credit for it. It is just 430 years since Columbus's claim was established to his own and the world's satisfaction. Ireland claims, however, that St. Brendan, an Irishman, made the discovery nine centuries before Columbus even sighted the Bahamas. The very earliest annals tell of the voyage of St. Brendan to the Western World, and it is now claimed by Irishmen that the traditions of this great voyage inspired Columbus in his great enterprise. The Scandinavian chroniclers, they say, support Ireland's claim and tell of Irishmen and Norsemen being visitors to Hintramannaland, which some called "Ireland in Mikla," or Great Ireland.

Slayer of Rich Wife Pays Death Penalty

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 1.—A hempen noose swung Jas. E. Mahoney, Seattle wife murderer, into eternity this morning. The death trap at the state prison here was sprung at 7:02 a. m. Six minutes later Dr. W. F. Ingram, prison physician, and Dr. O. J. Linhart announced that the man who brutally murdered his elderly and rich wife, Kate Moers Mahoney, in April, 1921, was dead.

Ten Lives Believed Lost In Shipwreck

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 1.—Ten lives are believed to have been lost and twenty members of the crew were rescued by coast guardsmen when the coal carrier Maplehurst went to pieces in a fierce gale three miles west of Portage lake ship canal early today.

The storm which began yesterday, rapidly swept northeast, driving to shelter all shipping near the coast. The Maplehurst was unable to make any port. It is feared other vessels may have been wrecked in the storm. The Maplehurst is owned by the Canada Steamship company, Montreal.

Harding Candidate In 1924, Says Hoover

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 1.—"Obviously the Republican presidential candidate in 1924 will be Warren G. Harding," said Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, in the course of an interview here today when asked his opinion as to the Republican presidential candidate in 1924.

"Moreover," Secretary Hoover added, "by that time the public will have been brought to a high appreciation of the sanity and progressive character of the Harding policies that will have brought the country through this reconstruction period."

Hoover, who has been making a brief visit in his Palo Alto home after attending meetings of state officials on the Colorado irrigation project, leaves Monday for the east. He will arrive in Los Angeles Tuesday morning.

STEAMER GOES ASHORE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—The steamer West Katan is ashore outside of Willemstad on the Curacao islands. Her position is not dangerous and several tugs are standing by to give assistance, the marine department of the chamber of commerce was informed today.

Attempt to Forget Tragedy In Her Life

SEATTLE, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Margaret Mahoney and her granddaughter, 15-year-old Margaret Johnson, will leave Seattle and start life anew in the old family home at Bangor, Me. Saddened and broken by the fate which overtook her son, James E. Mahoney, who was executed at the state prison at Walla Walla this morning, Mrs. Mahoney today was preparing to take the little girl who played such an important part in the trial of James Mahoney, to new fields where the terror of the past sixteen months might pass away and where new associations may enable her to forget the tragedy which wrecked the family circle here.

John Wanamaker In Serious Condition

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1. — The following bulletin was issued by the physicians in attendance on John Wanamaker, merchant and philanthropist, early today.

"With the continued loss of strength and vitality, Mr. Wanamaker passed a comfortable night."

THIS GEM

Of a five-room bungalow, just completed, will appeal to the most fastideous. The house is actually $500 under the cost to builder, as we know the value of the lot and have the figures of the construction company. The lawn and shrubs have been planted, the little home is ready to move into immediately. Located only a few blocks from the heart of the city. All rooms large and airy. Half-inch best grade hardwood floors. Gas furnace with registers in each room. Tile bath with recess tub and shower. Tile drain board. Superba water heater. Inlaid linoleum on kitchen and breakfast nook, cemented to floor. Nice electric fixtures. Paneled wall paper in living and dining room. Laundry in garage, two tubs. In fact, as complete a little home as you will find any place and at a price that you can not duplicate the house and lot for. It is a pleasure to show this property.

N. Y. WATERWAY'S TRAFFIC GROWING

Business for 1922 Will Be Largest Yet, If Weather Continues Fair

BUFFALO, N. Y.—New York state barge canal officials estimate that 7,000,000 tons of freight will be moved on the state waterway during the navigation season of 1922. This estimate, made by Joseph Nichols, division superintendent, after conferences with other divisional chiefs, are based upon the assumption that there will be no unseasonable weather between now and December 1.

Should this total be reached, it will represent a gain of nearly 600 per cent in two years. In 1920 there was handled on the barge canal 1,010,000 tons of freight. In 1921, the total increased to more than 3,000,000 tons. This year there are between 350 and 400 more first-class barges in operation on the canal than in 1921.

Public carriers and private corporations are planning the construction of important fleets which will be ready for use when the 1923 navigation season opens, it is reported here. One company which operates a fleet of bulk carriers will add to its fleet 27 barges, each of 1800 to 2000 tons capacity. Three or four iron and steel producers in the Buffalo district, also, are planning the construction of fleets to move their output to tidewater, Mr. Nichols has been informed.

Prompt Deliveries

One reason for the increase in canal tonnage is the prompt deliveries that are being made in both directions. In recent months, a large number of shipments have reached Buffalo in 100 to 120 hours after they left the port area of New York. In some instances, canal shipments have arrived here before similar consignments by rail, started at an identical time.

One drawback to through service has been the refusal of the New York Central railroad to place cars on tracks at the Genesee street terminal of the canal here. This drawback will be removed by 1923 in one of two ways. The Supreme Court of the United States now has before it an application for an order directing such placing of cars. If this application is granted, such services will have to be provided.

Terminal Service

The other way in which this difficulty may be overcome is by construction of a terminal at what is known as Ohio Basin. Three railroads have tracks adjoining this basin and each has purchased car service when terminals, for which contracts already have been awarded, are completed early in 1923.

Unexpectedly high rates and a large westbound tonnage has increased revenue of operators of canal barges this season beyond the expectations of owners, it is reported, and has placed those companies in a position which assures development of canal fleets for 1923.

One company is planning to operate refrigerator-equipped boats next season, it is understood, and will carry all classes of perishable freight.

Nebraska Farmers Seek New Tax Laws

LINCOLN, Neb.—The Nebraska farm bureau, acting through the executive board and the presidents of 40 county farm bureaus, has formulated for presentation to the legislature at the coming session a program that includes a state income tax, taxation of municipally-owned utilities, taxation of privately-owned municipalities on their rate-making valuation, abolition of the federal-state dollar-matching plan, revision of the high school curriculum so as to eliminate what they term "the fads," and to teach only practical matters, with greater local control over schools.

These demands were formulated at a meeting held here, in conjunction with representatives of the farmers' union, the whole representing what the farmers of the state desire in the way of legislation. The greatest interest and the widest discussion centered about the question of rural schools, from the high school down.

Bank and Bar Old Foes; Bank Victor

UTICA, N. Y.—Here's a news story which preaches its own sermon:

In 1838 "The Bank," a Whitesboro landmark, was erected to house the new "Bank of Whitesboro," incorporated under the state banking laws.

Sixty years ago the bank moved out and a saloon moved in.

Now the saloon is moving out and the building once more is to be devoted to the banking business.

Tire Hurled by Auto Circles Man's Neck

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa—An unidentified motorist pitched a ringer with an automobile tire near here recently, and Frank Kane, a farmer, has the evidence.

Kane was picking up corn in a field near the roadside when something struck him. Looking up he found an automobile tire encircling his body. It had been thrown by a machine which was fast disappearing up the road.

THEATRES

The Glendale

"Yankee Doodle, Jr.," which plays at the Glendale theatre today, is a genuine novelty and in addition an exciting, thrilling drama. A Yankee boy breezes into the hotbed of South American revolution, selling fireworks. He becomes enmeshed in the center of a blood-and-thunder revolt, unseats a villainous contender to the presidency and falls in love with the daughter of the President of the Republic.

A wonderful canine, "The Yankee Doodle Dog," plays an important role. His name is "Energy," and he's all of that.

In addition, the Glendale Theatre presents tonight at 7:30 o'clock a preview of Frank R. Adams laugh comedy, "The Super Sex."

The T. D. & L.

A strong Gloria Swanson drama, superbly cast, is "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," now showing at the T. D. & L. theatre. Directed by Paramount's star megaphone-swinger, Sam Wood, it is one of the most lavish productions this organization has released this season.

Miss Swanson's performance in the role of the wronged young wife who sought to forget eventually finds another and greater happiness, is artistic and sincere. Conrad Nagel, as the young novelist, who alone saw the good that was in Mrs. Bellew, gives a splendid picture characterization. Others who contribute to this really fine picture are Herbert Standing, June Elvidge and Richard Wayne.

Government Finds Much Tax Dodging

WASHINGTON — Tax-dodging on a wholesale scale, involving probably $100,000,000, has been uncovered by the bureau of internal revenue in its drive against delinquent taxpayers it was learned officially at the treasury department today.

A re-checking of the audit of 1917 returns was said to have revealed many cases of questionable, if not deliberate false returns. The cases were said to be chiefly those of firms which accumulated great wealth through war contracts.

The department of justice also has taken a hand in the investigation. Its examination of contracts for war material, made by the war department and the shipping board, has shed new light on alleged juggling of accounts, according to the informant.

To what extent there will be criminal prosecutions for tax evasion was not indicated, but was declared that tax collectors are making a good showing in bringing back taxes into the treasury, and where there is evidence of deliberate falsehood prosecution will follow. The present campaign of the bureau of internal revenue was inaugurated to wipe out an anticipated deficit of approximately $700,000,000 in the treasury statement for the current fiscal year.

Unless this drive produces a measurable proportion of this amount and income from other sources, such as settlement of war frauds cases and budget pruning, new taxes must be levied by congress. The new administration was represented as reluctant to ask for more taxes, and so turned to war frauds cases and tax dodgers as the source from which to meet the deficit.

It was indicated by a spokesman for the treasury department that many of the cases dating as far back as 1917 involve more than $1,000,000 each.

A red cap at the Grand Central terminal in New York city was body servant to Lord Kitchener for a dozen years and was the head interpreter of the Roosevelt big game expedition to Africa. He is familiar with 13 languages and five African dialects.

Value of the country's crops this year is estimated at more than $12,000,000,000.

Rikisha Factory to Make Baby Buggies

TOKIO—The largest and old jinrikisha factory in Japan has closed its doors. Soon they will reopen, but then it will be a baby buggy factory instead.

The days of the famous "man-pull-cart" of Japan are numbered. Trains, street cars, automobiles and bicycles have cut in the business of the jinrikisha coolies until they are now in the same position as was the American cab driver a decade ago. Each year the licenses issued are fewer, and one can almost see the number of coolies in Tokio decreasing. Like the cab drivers, they have been optimistic so far.

Need they further information to convince them that their business is a dying one, the recent announcement of the oldest jinrikisha factory in Japan that it would change its business is enough. Daisuke Akiha, son of the man who built the first jinrikisha in 1867 under the directions of an English missionary, who inherited his father's business along with the millions realized from it, has built his last "man-pull-cart."

Akiha is a far-sighted and keen business man. Profits have been dwindling so rapidly that he sees the business is doomed. He also thinks that Japanese women are tired of carrying their babies on their backs. So, instead of jinrikishas he is going to make baby buggies.

But that is not all; a part of his factories will be outfitted with American machinery for the manufacture of ready-made clothes. Japanese are fast forsaking the kimono for the western business suit, and he sees more profits there.

Woman Poor Barber; Says Coiffeur Chief

LONDON—"Women are no good as barbers, they are unreliable and erratic, as most women are in work. Their skill may be remarkable today but positively dangerous tomorrow."

This is the challenging reason given for the official exclusion of women from the ancient profession of hairdressing by John Symonds, president of the Hairdressers' association, who contends that only men can make efficient barbers.

Nursing Profession Becoming Popular

CHICAGO — America's young women are deserting the typewriter, the shops and the movies to enter the nursing profession, according to Mary E. Wheeler, superintendent of the Illinois Training School for Nurses.

"Nursing is more popular today than it has ever been before," she said. "Our nursing schools are overcrowded."

Miss Wheeler declared one of the chief reasons for the popularity of the hospital profession with the young women was the change in the system of schooling.

"Nursing schools are being put on an educational basis, and are not under the strict military discipline they were formerly," she said.

"The young woman of today is an independent creature, and she resented the old military discipline.

"Conducted on an educational basis, with the lid tilted on discipline, our nursing schools have attracted unprecedented attention and raised the standard of the profession."

Hawaiian Kiddies' Schools Are Popular

HONOLULU — Honolulu free kindergartens in spite of accommodating an enrollment that more than triples last year's attendance, are daily refusing admittance to hundreds of kiddies.

The new kindergarten recently opened by the Palama Settlement with accommodations for 200 youngsters, turned away more than that many on the opening day.

Playgrounds all over the city are reporting more than double attendance over last year's figures.

ILLINOIS LEADS IN ATTENDANCE

State Makes Best Showing In Thanksgiving Service Held on Thursday

pronounced by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the Congregational church.

The musical portion of the services consisted of a hymn by the Christian church choir, an offertory selection by Mrs. Floyd Mercer of 319 North Jackson street and Mrs. C. C. Stoler of 339 West Colorado street. Harry Marple of 1539 Glenwood road sang a solo, "Just For Today."

Outline of Address

Following will be found an outline of the address delivered by Rev. Winnard:

"A most appropriate text for today is that found in Col. 3:15, 'And be ye thankful.'

"The quality of being thankful belongs to man alone. A dog may show its joy and a cat may purr its satisfaction and contentment, but to man alone is given the grace of gratitude and the power of its expression. For gratitude involves an intelligent consideration of the relationship between the recipient and the benefactor.

"The scripture gives us the first examples of a national Thanksgiving period of the various Feasts, as of the Passover, the Harvests, and the Tabernacles. So far as our national day is concerned, there is no direct scriptural command but the appointment and observance of the day is both appropriate and seasonable. Praise is always comely and now that the season's harvests are gathered and the men are enjoying the fruit of their toil it is fitting that we should lay aside our daily tasks and gather in the house of God for praise and thanksgiving.

Day to Thank God

The purpose of the day is expressed in the text. It is to give thanks to God for all his blessings to us. It is a sad commentary on the religious as well as the patriotic life of our nation that nearly all of our national memorial days are fast losing the spirit which called them forth. And it is not out of place today to call attention to some of he evils that are threatening the very foundation of the government as well as the social and moral life of our people. We, as Christians, are rejoicing in the passage of the Wright bill at the recent election. We have worked ourselves into a fever of excitement abut the great consequences involved, but at the same time we sit idly by while certain lawmakers open our Sabbath days to all forms of common week-day labor and make it a crime to read the Bible or lead in prayer in our public schools. Men of the church, where were you when they put this thing over on you?

"And this day is more than just a day of thanksgiving—it is a day for cultivating the spirit of gratitude. And this gratitude should be rightly placed. For it it not nature that bestows all these blessings upon us, but it is Nature's God. And God honors His people who honor him in the observance of such days as this. 'Them that honor Me I will honor,' is His Divine promise.

Recalls World War

"One of the recent and practical illustrations of this great truth was in the early summer of 1918 when across the seas the armies of the enemy were pressing on to the very gates of the city of Paris. A call for a day of national confession and supplication was sent out by President Wilson. And almost with the passing of the day the armies of the Allies began to drive the Germans back and from that day of prayer to the end of the war the Germans never won an important engagement. Who says it does not pay to be 'a nation whose God is the Lord?'

"Two guests are at your home. As they partake of the bounties of your table one of them pauses to express his appreciation of your hospitality. The other goes his way without a word of thanks. Surely he has neglected something vital to our social life and pleasure. Shall we be as spiritual barbarians and partake of all the bounties God bestows upon us and go bur way without a thought of expressing our gratitude to Him from whom all blessings flow? God help us that this day and all our days may be days in which we honor Him even by the giving of thanks for all that He does for us. With the Psalmist of old we say: 'Bless the Lord O my soul and forget not all His benefits.'"

Burbank Delegation to Attend Revival

The Dunlops, revivalists, will hold another of their meetings at the Tropico Presbyterian church tonight. The theme will be "The Broad Road to Hell." The evangelists will sing "Drinking at the Fountain."

Dr. Dunlop states he has received word a delegation from Burbank will attend the meeting tonight.

"The people of Burbank are very much interested in the work Mrs. Dunlop and myself are doing," he explains, "for while there last spring we united seventy-three persons with the church."

The Dunlops will hold a big meeting on Saturday night, when the subject will be "Glendale's Prodigal Son—Who Is He?"

MAKE PLANS FOR EDUCATION WEEK

Schools of Glendale Will Participate In Program; Harding Endorses

ty which is no necessary in acquiring and maintaining an efficient school system.

Starts With Legion

"The idea of the observance of American Education Week originated with the American Legion and it is at their instance and suggestion that it is being celebrated over the entire nation. It is a good men for the future welfare of the public schools and through them of the nation that the young men, who were in the service during the world war, are so greatly interested in the schools and in the development of future citizens."

Patriots' Day will be observed next Tuesday and a brief talk on patriotism by a legionnaire will be made in each of the public schools, as follows: Wilson Avenue Intermediate school, Rev. Harry I. Rasmus; Glendale Avenue Intermediate school, Attorney Owen C. Emery; Columbus school, Dr. E. T. Remmen; Cerritos school, Attorney Eugene J. Wix; Broadway school, Attorney W. Clair Anspach; Pacific school, City Manager W. H. Reeves; Colorado school, Col. James W. Everington; Central school, Attorney Lee A. Dayton; Doran school, Attorney James F. McBryde; Acacia school, Rev. C. M. Calderwood; Grand View school, Realtor C. B. Guthrie; Glendale Union High school, Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson.

Issues Statement

Attorney James F. McBryde, commander of the local post of the American Legion, has issued the following statement in regard to American Education Week:

"The American Legion is distinctly a patriotic organization formed for the purpose of fostering 100 per cent Americanism and for that reason it stands squarely behind and beside the American public school in touching the pure principles of patriotism as handed down by our forefathers.

"As an organization, therefore, we approve and endorse American Education Week to be celebrated December 4 to 10 and we pledge to the public schools of our city our moral support and the assistance of our organization in securing for them the recognition which they deserve and in helping to call the attention of the public to the work they are doing.

"Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion unreservedly endorses:

"First—All teachers in public, private and parochial schools must be American citizens and must take the oath of allegiance to the United States government.

"Second—English must be the basic language in all schools whether public, private or parochial.

"Third—Great emphasis must be laid on patriotic exercises and the teaching of history and civics in the schools.

"Fourth — School attendance for nine months of the year must be made compulsory through the high school age.

"Feeling that the public school is the cornerstone of democracy and that without it our republic could not endure beyond the present generation, as commander of the local post of the American Legion, I urge upon every member and upon the people of Glendale the wisdom and necessity of giving their whole-hearted support to the American public school and I suggest, particularly, that they give a little time during American Education Week to learn what our schools are doing toward the accomplishment of their great task of turning out American citizens."

From President Harding

Warren G. Harding, president of the United States, has issued the following proclamation relative to American Education Week:

The ideals of democratic government and democratic education were planted simultaneously in our country. The fathers rightly believed that only a people trained to vision of public needs and duties could develop and maintain the institutions of popular government. The system of universal education, established in the beginning, has developed with the country and become one of the characteristic features of our life. In it we have laid the foundation of that system of American culture which has enabled us to absorb and assimilate millions who have come to us from many countries, bringing the traditions of widely varying institutions.

In order that we may keep in mind the need constantly to improve our educational system, it is proposed that the week of December 3-9, inclusive, be set aside for special observance as American Education Week. It is recommended to the governors of the states that they co-operate with the educational and civic authorities of their commonwealths to make the week a period for revival of interest in the broad work of national education.

It is gratifying to know that in a time when public burdens have lain very heavy upon the people there has been everywhere a determined purpose to maintain education unimpaired, in order that the coming generation may be equipped, regardless of sacrifices in the present, for the increasing responsibilities which it must bear.

Education Makes Vision

"Without vision the people perish." Without education, there can be little vision. Of education it may be said that "It is twice blessed; it blesseth him that gives and him that takes." It will be greatly worth the effort if, as an incident to the observance of Education Week, we can impress this thought upon the young manhood and womanhood of the nation and redirect their interest and patriotic zeal to the idea of making a proper contribution to educational work. It is regrettable that so few young men and women, equipped for such service, are nowadays disposed to give their time and talents to teaching. Education needs their young eagerness, zeal and enthusiasm. There is no school of discipline more effective than that in which the teacher goes to school. We could do no greater service than by convincing those young men and women who have enjoyed educational opportunities, that they owe a reasonable share of their time and energies to teaching.

The strength and security of the nation will always rest in the intelligent body of its people. Our education should implant conceptions of public duty and private obligation broad enough to envisage the problems of a greatly distraught world. More than anything else, men and women need the capacity to see with clear eye and to contemplate with open, unprejudiced mind, the issues of these times. Only through a properly motivated and generously inspired process of education can this be accomplished.

In view, then, of these and many other considerations, I hereby proclaim the week of December 3-9 as American Education Week, recommending to the appropriate national, state and local authorities that they give their cordial support and co-operation to making its observances inspirational and beneficial. Civic organizations and religious bodes may render special service by their co-operation; and particularly it is recommended that parents enlist themselves in behalf of closer understanding between the school and the home, with the purpose of mutual helpfulness.

In Consideration and Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington, this 20th day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-two, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Forty-seventh.

Mrs. E. W. Legg Wins Thanksgiving Turkey

That turkey contests are popular and tend to increase the interest of patrons was the opinion voiced today by Mrs. E. W. Legg of 521 San Fernando road, who drew the lucky number and consequently received the prize thanksgiving turkey given away by Zite-Leen's this week.

For several weeks past each customer at this store received a tag with a number. The duplicate was placed in a locked and sealed box and then a few days before the big turkey day, the drawing was held. The card bearing the number 900 was the lucky ticket. Mrs. Legg held the duplicate and thereby claimed the turkey.

BURBANK WANTS ROTARY CHAPTER

vided. You see, of every dollar we take in, we keep 50 cents for local purposes and send 50 cents to Washington for the national organization. Thus 2000 memberships at $1 each will yield us $1000 for Glendale Red Cross uses. Whereas, if we exceeded our quota by 400 members, we would have $200 more of local funds with which to accomplish good.

"Last year," Mrs. White continued, "we spent $1200 here in Glendale, those receiving aid from us including disabled veterans, hospitals and countless of the poor and needy. If we are to equal our last year's program, we will have to spend at least as much and that will mean a minimum of 2400 members at the dollar price, as we have at the present time only $19 in the treasury.

"Another thing. The national organization allows us to keep for local purposes all donations in excess of the minimum $1 memberships, so I want to urge everyone who can give more to do so. It will be a direct help to Glendale."

At the conclusion of her remarks, Mrs. White received contributions of memberships from a large number of Rotarians.

Make Announcements

There followed a series of announcements. Arthur H. Dibbern stated that the Glendale Elks' annual memorial service will be held Sunday, December 3, at the Glendale theatre, at 2:30 o'clock. Valentine M. Hollister told the gathering of the honor three members had had conferred upon them by the Chamber of Commerce, George H. Bentley, Allen R. Eastman and W. E. Hewitt having been elected directors of that organization at its meeting Tuesday night. A telegram from George Karr was read, stating that this booster citizen and Rotarian had arrived in Kansas City and would be in Parsons by the time the message was read. It was announced that last week's attendance had been 100 per cent.

The luncheon was concluded by short talks from three of the new members, John G. Huntley, J. A. Newton and Edward Nisle. All told of how they felt toward Rotary and the benefits they expected to derive from it.

After the regular meeting, a brief session was held by the committee in charge of arranging Rotary's share in the coming Salvation Army drive, the members of this committee being George H. Bentley, Charles S. Cooper and J. I. Wernette.
